The Flat Rock Brook Nature Center cannot do all it does without the energy and dedication of hundreds of volunteers. Volunteer groups from corporate, non-profit, and private organizational settings all help Flat Rock Brook achieve its goals through various means. A number of outdoor opportunities are available for groups through most of the year. All work requires easy to moderate labor and all supplies and materials are supplied. We are very flexible and can accommodate groups of various sizes.

If you are interested in a group volunteer opportunity, please fill out the contact information, and fax/mail back to Flat Rock Brook Nature Center. You will be contacted to discuss further details.

Depending on the season and need, projects may include:

- Invasive Plant Removal: Help protect our forest from invasive, non-native plant species that threaten the diversity and health of our forest ecosystem. Volunteers will learn about why invasive plant species are a major threat to ecosystems, how to identify common invaders, and appropriate means of removal and control. Volunteers will help remove specific invasive plants from portions of the preserve.
- Trail Maintenance: Help clean our trails, reroute old trails, and construct and install trail structures that will improve visitors experience at Flat Rock Brook.
- Habitat Restoration: Help improve our native gardens located around the preserve and improve ecosystem health throughout the preserve by planting native plants and removing unwanted weeds.
- Special Events: Volunteer groups are needed specific-day special events throughout the year such as helping with deer drives, building boardwalk, etc.
